

AWU SAFETY UPDATE

QUEENSLAND HEALTH CORONAVIRUS

12th March 2020

We know that more and more cases of coronavirus (Covid-19) are developing each day and we're working hard to ensure that AWU members are kept safe at work – and that you're treated fairly if your site is affected.

We know AWU members in Queensland Health are on the frontline and we've been working every day to make sure everything possible is being done to keep you safe at work.

In response to our calls for safety assurances, we've received correspondence from Queensland Health and have participated in a briefing with senior officials on what measures are being put in place to deal with the outbreak.

With new cases emerging and the situation changing rapidly, we will continue to monitor all developments and ensure Queensland Health is taking every precaution to keep workers safe.

There has never been a more important time to be a member of the AWU.

If you:

1. Are concerned about health and safety at your site
2. Are worried about being able to access sick leave
3. Are worried about losing casual shifts
4. Need help with any employment matter during this time

Make sure you contact your AWU Organiser straight away.

For the latest information on prevention and protection – we'd urge you to stay up to date with all Queensland Health and Federal Government advice and following proper hygiene practices.

If you have any questions, please contact the AWU ☎ 1800 298 753
